Do you know the story of Johnny Applesseed?

Johnny Applesseed in real life was one John Chapman, born on September 26, 1774 near Leominster, Massachusetts. Little is known of his early life, but he apparently received a good education which helped him in his later years. By the time he was 25 years old, he had become a nursery man and had planted apple trees in the western portions of New York and Pennsylvania. Some of the orchards in those areas were said to have originated with his apple trees.

When the rich and fertile lands lying south of the Great Lakes and west of the Ohio river were opened for settlement in the early 1800's, John Chapman was among the very first to explore the new territory. This was the Northwest Territory from which the states of Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois were later formed. For nearly half a century Johnny Applesseed roamed his territory. When settlers arrived, they found John Chapman's young apple trees ready for sale. In the years that followed, he became known as the Apple Tree Man, or Johnny Applesseed.

His manner of operation was simple. He went into the wilderness with a bag of apple seeds on his back until he found a likely spot for planting. There he would clear the land by chopping out weeds and brush by hand. Then he planted his apple seeds in neat rows and built a brush fence around the area to keep out straying animals. His nurseries varied in size. Some were only an acre or so, others covered many acres.

He did all of the work himself, living alone for weeks at a time with only the Indians and wild animals for companionship. He never carried a gun or weapon of any kind. He was a deeply religious man who lived by the Golden Rule and had no fear of man or beast. Indians accepted him as a friend.

He sold his trees for a few pennies each, accepting any of the coins current on the frontier. Some had no cash, and from those he accepted a simple promise to pay at a later date. Few failed to keep their word. He sometimes accepted payment in used clothing.

He preferred to walk, carrying his precious apple seeds and the simplest of camping gear on his back. He also used a boat, canoe, or raft to transfer larger loads of seeds along the many waterways. Customarily, he obtained his apple seeds every fall. At first, he went back to the cider presses in western Pennsylvania where he selected good seeds from the discarded apple pressings. He washed the seeds carefully and packed them in bags for planting the following spring. In later years, as cider presses were located in the new territory, he gathered his seeds closer to home.

There is no way to estimate how many millions of seeds he planted in the hundreds of nurseries he created in the territory lying south of the Great Lakes and between the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. This was his service to mankind.

John Chapman never married, but he loved people and especially children. As the settlers moved into the wilderness, his lonely nights were fewer because he was a welcomed guest at every cabin. Many a night after the simple meal, he would hold them all enthralled with his stories or read to them from the Bible or from some of the religious material he carried.

It was with such friends that he spent his last night. He had been living near Fort Wayne, Indiana, when word came one March day that cattle had broken through the brush fence around one of his nurseries some twenty miles away. Although it was a raw spring day, he set forth immediately to repair the damage. On his return trip he was stricken with a disease known as the winter plague. He found shelter with friendly settlers but failed to survive the attack. A newspaper account gives the date as March 18, 1845, but other dates have been given. Such confusion is not at all surprising when one remembers that this kind and gentle man was known by the name of Johnny Appleseed to almost everyone, and only a few knew that his true name was John Chapman. Many of his young seedlings may have crossed the plains in covered wagons to produce their bountiful fruit in the western states.

Certainly, his fame did, for the name of Johnny Appleseed is known throughout all of the United States and elsewhere in much of the world. People continue to improve their environment in Johnny Appleseed's manner whenever they plant a new seedling!

It's Time To Help!

Dear Neighbor,

The Mountain Valley Volunteer Fire Department needs your help to continue providing you with the high level of emergency service that you deserve! We are an all-volunteer, non-profit organization dedicated to saving lives and property in our foothill and mountain communities. Our members are all local residents who donate hundreds of hours each year training and responding to emergencies in Squaw Valley, Dunlap, Miramonte, and Pinehurst. We respond to calls for medical aid, motor vehicle accidents, structure fires, brush and grass fires, and other emergencies that may arise from Cove Road to the Park Entrance and from the Tulare County Line to the north edge of Squaw Valley.

Our volunteers are trained in low- to high-angle rope rescue and vehicle extrication as well as fire fighting. We currently have certified Emergency Medical Technicians on the Department, and of our 20 volunteers, several more members have nearly completed the certification process. We have three defibrillation units for first responder cardiac care. Our three fire/rescue trucks, rescue squad unit, and our water tender are strategically located throughout the nearly 200 square mile area we serve in order to provide you with the fastest possible response.

None of our dedicated volunteers receive any compensation for their services! We are not tax supported, nor do we have any other source of regular income. We have an annual budget of about $80,000.00 to pay for fuel, insurance, vehicle maintenance, equipment, and training. Insurance and fuel are our largest expenses by far, consuming over a quarter of the budget. All of this money is generously donated by you, the people we serve.

Mountain Valley Fire Department is the volunteer organization that responds along with CalFire when you call 911! In order to continue providing emergency services, we desperately need your generous donation! If we are to have adequate funds to meet our operating expenses this year, donations will need to average Seventy-five dollars per donating household.

We appreciate any amount you are able to invest in the safety and protection of your property and loved ones. And we gratefully acknowledge those who give above and beyond that average.

The Four Seasons Garden Club

When the Nature Trail behind the Bear Mountain Library was constructed in 1995, the Garden Club assumed responsibility for its care and upkeep. An irrigation system was installed followed by the planting of over 100 trees. There are many species of trees, most of which were donated by garden club members, many in memoriam. To help with expenses of maintaining and improving the Nature Trail, the Garden Club has two big fund raisers each year.

At present the themed gardens in the Nature Trail include: A Mediterranean garden, a flower garden, and a succulent garden. In 2007 a large cement pad, the Educational Platform, was installed to provide a place for community events. We are now working toward installing a cover for the platform. In 2008 a Dry Creek Bed with various sizes of rocks was constructed. In 2009 a Compost Area was completed to make use of all the trimmings from the various gardens.

Each month a group of hard working volunteers, coordinated by Joe Bauernschmidt, meet on Tuesday morning to keep the Nature Trail in Good condition.

The Nature Trail is a lovely place for a morning walk and can be reserved for a special party or a garden wedding. Arrangements for a private event can be made with the Librarian. It is meant to be a community place and all are welcome to enjoy it.

This year the Crafts and Art Fair will be held on Oct 2 at the Nature Trail. There is something for everyone at this event. Vendors will have unusual and hand made items just in time for Christmas shopping. There will be a Plant Sale, a Raffle, Music, Food and lots of socialization. Booths can be reserved by calling Donna at 338 2025.

The second fund raising event is a garden tour. Each year different gardens in Squaw Valley, Wonder Valley, Dunlap, Miramonte and Pinehurst are featured. This is usually in the spring. It is not necessary to be a garden club member to be featured on the tour. If you have a beautiful garden and would like to be featured, contact 338 0335.

Remember, no Garden Club Meeting in August. There will be a meeting on the 3rd Thursday in September. See you there.

Did You Know?.....

Did you know that our mountain community has a Chamber of Commerce?

The following is but a brief history of our Central Sierra Chamber of Commerce, graciously provided by Kaysia Barr.

The Central Sierra Chamber of Commerce had its beginning April 20, 1946 when a small group of citizens from Badger, Dunlap, Miramonte, and Pinehurst met around a dining room table at the Miramonte Store. Their stated aim and purpose was to create an organization that would serve to unite the communities of the Central Sierra in a common purpose. They recognized that minor differences and petty jealousies between communities served only to defeat the total well-being of the entire area.

In July of 1946, the by-laws were adopted, the name: Central Sierra Chamber of Commerce chosen, and Kyle Jones was elected president. Membership grew rapidly that first year. Meetings were held in member's homes or business establishments. By the end of 1948 there were 105 members (all men) from all parts of the mountain communities. It was during this time that a community hall was first proposed. This remained a dream and a goal of the Chamber from that time on.

To raise funds for the advertising program for the area and to eventually build a community hall, the Chamber began to hold annual 4th of July rodeos. The first was held in 1947 in the arena built by members on property loaned to the Chamber by Earl and Ruth Chaney. In 1953 property was purchased in Pinehurst and that is the present site of the Chamber building, as it is referred to now. A new rodeo arena was built and the annual 4th of July rodeos continued until 1965.

In the late 1950's women were invited to join the Chamber and have been a valuable asset. While many men and women have served their communities within the Chamber of Commerce, the dream and goal of one day building a community hall was kept alive by a few who worked long and hard.

In August of 1975 members saw the Chamber building start to take shape. The cement floor was poured. Upon completion of the building, an open house was held December 4, 1975 to show the community a building they could be proud of. It was then that the women of the Chamber decided to meet and work all year crafting and sewing, then hold a Christmas Boutique and have handmade items for sale. This was, and still is, the main fund-raiser which pays to keep the grounds and building maintained.

Our Mission

"It is better to build a child than to mend an adult." This is the main objective of the 4-H program. In 4-H, volunteer leaders encourage youth to gain knowledge and learn practical life skills and to apply both in their project area. Members learn to work together as a team and learn decision-making skills through their project work, judging contests and other 4-H activities. Mountain Valley 4-H is committed to reaching the young people of the Squaw Valley and Dunlap and Miramonte areas.
